Work and Leisure

Let's talk about some of the topics below:

Work

Work is an activity that involves mental or physical effort aimed at achieving a purpose or result. It is something we engage in to earn a living, contribute to society, and fulfil personal goals. Work provides a sense of responsibility, and can lead to financial independence and the development of new skills.

- What jobs have you had?
- Are you trained for a particular type of job?
- How many different jobs have you had?
- Did you ever leave a job then start a totally different job?
- What sorts of jobs did your parents have?
- What would be your ideal job?
- Have you ever enjoyed your work and job as much as your leisure time?
- Some people find skills they have acquired at work useful to their leisure hobbies. Has this happened to you?
- What could be the most dangerous job in Australia? What could be the most difficult job?

Leisure

Leisure is also called 'free time'. Free time is time spent away from business, work, job hunting, domestic chores, as well as necessary activities such as eating and sleeping.

- What do you do in your spare time?
- Have you a special hobby?
- Do you collect anything? (posters, coins, books etc.)
- If you had enough time, what hobby would you like to do?
